President's Letter

Events and happenings are tumbling upon us almost faster than the Board can keep up with them. So Far, it's all good news!

Support and help have come from all over the county. We have already raised the awareness level of genealogy in Ashley County about 1,000%. We've made marvelous discoveries in the court house and have received great help from county officials. All we have to do is mention Ashley County Genealogical Society and favors fall in our laps.

If you haven't been contacted to help on a project, pick out where you want to help and volunteer to the appropriate chairman. There is plenty for everyone to do for the next decade, believe me.

Our primary need is your paid membership. If you have just put off sending your check, please do so as soon as you can. And encourage some friends to join, too. It's financially very difficult for us right now. Remember, this membership is good until July, 1987.

Meanwhile, we have established a corner at the Presbyterian Church of Crossett at third and Pine for a copy machine (hopefully coming our way), a filing cabinet (donated), paper supplies (donated), and work table and chairs (loaned).

There isn't room to thank by name each of the persons who helped with this issue, but please know your help is much appreciated.

Marilyn Hudgens

p. 80 ff

One of the expeditions organized after the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 was led by William Dunbar and George Hunter, who investigated the Ouachita River as far north as Hot Springs. This expedition left Fort Miro (Monroe) on 11 Nov 1804 and entered what is now the Felsenthal Project area four days later.

Some of the persons living at that time along the river were John Skinner at Champagnolle Creek, and two French hunters just below Moro Bay. Settlement of the lands in this area proceeded slowly. The basic pattern of growth can be seen in the creation of new counties. Union County, which covered all of south-central Arkansas, was formed in 1829. Bradley County was created from parts of Union and Chicot counties in 1840. Ouachita County was formed from the northern part of Union County in 1842. Ashley County was added in late 1848, and Calhoun County was created in 1852.

As the population grew, landings on the Ouachita River became trade centers for the interior. Champagnolle, which was established before 1830 by Lawrence, John, and Silas Scarborough, became a prosperous town and the most important shipping point on the river between Camden and the Louisiana line. The county seat was at Champagnolle from 1838 to 1844, and a government land office was opened there in 1845. The town had several stores, a tavern, and a jail, and several of the houses had plastered walls and formal gardens.

The landings at Pigeon Hill, Wilmington, and Caryville (also called Burk's Landing) gained importance in the late 1840's. Lapile Township was created in 1846 in southeast Union County in what was called the "Dark Corner." William Rowland, who had settled in 1843 near present day Huttig, met the need for a landing by building a floating dock at the nearest point on the river. Known as Rowland's Raft, this landing helped the Lapile community grow. Wesley Rowland and his brother William Lorenzo started the first store there about 1850, and John V. McHenry built the first gin about the same time. The community had Methodist and Primitive Baptist churches, and a school named the Lapile Academy.

The Black family who settled southeast of Burk's Landing in the 1830's had to cut a road from Farmerville, Louisiana, to their new land. This road was later extended to the river at Burk's Landing and was eventually made a part of a road from Camden to Monroe. Other roads ran from Pigeon Hill to Black's, from Wallace's (east of New London) to Lapile Creek, and from Wallace's to Watt's Landing on Lapile Creek.

Ferries were established to make river crossings easier. The first license on this part of the river was issued to William Burk in 1834 for his ferry at the mouth of Moro Creek (Union County Court Record A:27). He later established the landing and ferry that became Caryville.

Marie Saline Landing

The community with the most direct impact on the project area was Marie Saline Landing on the Ouachita River (see map). The landing and ferry at Marie Saline were established in 1852 by Nathaniel M. Mulholland and Joseph D. Christian on the crossing for the Hamburg-El Dorado Road. Mulholland soon sold his interest in the landing to James A. Mason, and Mason and Christian received a license to run a ferry at the landing. (Editor's note: see Ashley County Court Records, this issue for first ferry license across the Saline) The Marie Saline landing served a community that stretched along the road from Hamburg to the river, and along the road from Fountain Hill in the northern part of Ashley County to Extra Landing on the river below Lock 6. By 1856 the landing served enough people that a post office was established with Joseph Christian as postmaster.

After the Civil War Marie Saline Landing was again a major shipping point for cotton. The landing changed owners several times in the late 1800's, going first to Fred Erickson and then to Dock Bird, who also ran Extra Landing.

ASHLEY COUNTY

Reprinted from The Historical Gazette, dated February 1986, a publication of the Arkansas Sesquicentennial Commission, although no data is given in the newspaper.

The county was created on November 30, 1848, from part of Drew County and was named for Chester Ashley, United States senator from Arkansas. In the beginning the county court was held at Fountain Hill in the northern part of the county. A board of commissioners, appointed to choose a permanent county seat, selected a central site and laid out the town of Hamburg, still the seat of justice. (Note: the eastern one-half was from Chicot County.)

NOTE: Wills in this, the only surviving will book of early Ashley County, begin in 1849. The original book is kept in the Abstract Office at the court house. This index was made a few years ago and only includes the testators. It is hoped we can abstract these wills and publish an every name index in the future.
